

5. ABSTRACT

Product selling system and a method for operating the same, the product selling system including clients networks accessible to Internet, and a service provider network including a data base having 3D image data of various products, and sample data of 3D images of parts the various products are to be applied thereto, and a web server having a 10 program operative in connection with the data base for facilitating a manipulation of combining a product image to a 3D sample image on the web page if a client desires.